BIO

Sophia Dion is a rising star in the music industry, with a unique voice and style she aims to connect with an audience who can grow alongside her. Currently based in Los Angeles after graduating from the University of Southern California (USC) with a major in Popular Music and an emphasis in Songwriting, Sophia has been honing her craft as a songwriter, performer, vocalist, multi-instrumentalist, and producer.With her unique sound that blends pop, alternative, country, and soul, Sophia's music reflects on her life experiences, covering themes of love, loss, and personal growth.

Sophia's journey began in her hometown of Park City, Utah, where she played at various venues, including events at the Sundance Film Festival alongside artists like John Batiste. She soon ventured out to other cities such as Nashville, New York, and Los Angeles, where she played shows and wrote new music. Her performances have taken her to notable venues such as the Netflix headquarters, YouTube Space LA, The Hotel Cafe, and Nashville's iconic 3rd and Lindsley. Sophia has also had the honor of sharing the stage with legendary artists such as Michael Bolton, Mac Davis, Dave Mason, John Oates, and Brian McKnight to name a few. Her talent has also led her to write for other artists and work on projects for TV and film, landing placements for commercials, Netflix shows, and Reba McEntire's THE HAMMER on Lifetime.

With her dedication to her craft, Sophia continues to impress audiences with her soulful vocals, captivating performances, and honest songwriting. As she continues to evolve and grow as an artist, Sophia Dion is undoubtedly a name to watch in the music industry.
